Mr. Shaffer Says They Will Put in Many More Electric Lines.

Will Build to Garfield Park Early in the Spring -He Will Not Manage the Property -Lecal Capital in It.

Mr. J. C. Shaffer returned to this city from Chicago, yesterday morning, after having been successful in every way in purchasing the property of the Citizens' Street-railroad Company for his syndicate. This syndicate is composed of H. Sellers McKee, Murray A. Verner and others, of Pittsburg, and, what has not before been known, of several Indianapolis gentlemen. Just who these local capitalists are Mr. Shaffer does not wish to state, as it is still a matter of private conference among the gentlemen interested. Some Indianapolis man, however, will president of the corporation, and will have the active management of it. This is upon the authority of Mr. Shaffer, but the man, he says, has not yet been decided upon. The Indianapolis men who will take part of the stock will no doubt be among Mr. Shaffer's intimate friends. Among them are Mr. T. P. Haughey, Major Richards and Charles E. Coffin. This city will be represented on the board of di-

The price paid for the property was 83,150,000-8150 a share for the stock and $1,100,000 for the bonds. The most interesting part of the big transaction to Indianapolis citizens is the announcement that the entire system will be converted as rapidly as possible into rapid transit, and early in the spring an electric line will be built to Gartield Park. One of Mr. Shaffer's ideas is to build an electric line on Pennsylvania street to Virginia avenue, down that thoroughfare to Shelby street, and on out to Garneld Park. Information like this will be as balm of Gilead to the average South-sider, who has impressed himself with the fact that he has for years been discriminated against. Mr. Shaffer was seen at his home last evening, and had the following to say The negotiations for the purchase of this plant by Mr. H. Sellers McKee and Murray A. Verner, of Pittsburg, began Thursday a week ago. At this time I introduced them to the stockholders in Chicago and a price was agreed upon for the purchase of the stock and a sum of money was deposited with the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank as earnest money or a guarantee on their part to purchase 80 per cent, of the stock or all of it, and they preferred to buy all of it if all the stockholders desired to sell. A few after this Mr. Allerton was led to believe that certain things could be accomplished here, and expressed his desire to the stockholders to purchase the property himself. The stockholders were isposed to sell their stock to Mr. Allerton, but, after talking the matter over with a number of the stockholders and his per-sonal friends, Mr. Allerton concluded that he did not care to purchase the property, and on Friday last agreed to sell his stock also to Messrs. McKee and Verner and their associates. I was in Chicago at the time, and wired these gentlemen to meet me Satorday morning in Chicago, which they did. They had a conference with the directors, some of the larger stockholders also being present, and about 80 per cent. of the stock was then delivered to Mr. J. J. Mitchell as trustee for the stockholders, and an agreement was then entered into by which Mesers. McKee and Verner and their associates purchased this stock and agreed that they would buy all the stock, if presented, at the same price. "Mr. McKee is a wealthy gentleman of Pittsburg. He is president of two of the large national banks there, and also president and owner of a large glass factory, possibly the largest in the United States. It makes all kinds of glassware for the ta-ble, etc., and also plate-glass. Mr. Verner is also a wealthy gentleman of Pittsburg, and has been associated with street railroads for many years. His father built the first horse railway west of the Allegheny mountains, in Pittsburg, and as the city grew his plant was enlarged, and he is now a wealthy gentleman, but retired from active business. These gentlemen are active and aggressive in their enterprises, and Indianapolis is fortunate in having them associated with its interests in this enterprise. They are thoroughly convinced of the practicability and usefulness of electricity as a motive force and will begin as soon as they get complete possession of the prop-erty to equip all of the principal lines electrically. They have already been ad-vised of the desire of the people of Indianapolis for electric roads on the South Side and an extension of one of the lines to Garheld Park, and they will satisfy that desire in the early spring. They also have been advised of the fact that Indianapolis to entertain the Grand Army of Republic encampment next fall, and they will make ample preparations to give such street-railway facilities to the invited guests and their friends as will make every Indianapolis citizen feel proud. They are liberal men in the broad sense, and I earnestly trust that they will be given a cordial and hearty welcome by the citizens. They are the principal owners in the street railroads in Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., and have large interests in littsburg and other cities. They are practical street-railroad men, and are deserving of liberal treatment on the part of the city, and I feel quite sure they will receive it. They will not come into possession the property for some little but the preparations for extensions and improvements will be begun immediately. A number of Indianapolis gentlemen will be associated with them and will be also members of the board of directors." "Will you be president?" Mr. Shaffer was the road. I have other large business interests that will occupy my time completely. I leave for California next week, and will be away most of the winter. In the spring I expect to begin the building of an electric railway from Asbury Park to Northport, N. J., going through the towns of Deal Beach, Elberon, Long Branch and Pleasure Bay. The President of the road here will have to be on the ground continually because of the large amount of new construction and the reconstruction of horse lines and equipping them electrically.

A good deal of speculation is going the rounds, now that it is absolutely known that the deal has been consummated as to what will be done with the present officers. President Frenzel, of course, has sent in his resignation, and it will be accepted without any pressure being brought to bear upon him to withdraw it. This office will have to be filled, and as the new owners are practical street-railroad men they will no doubt want a practical street-railroad man to serve as president. As he is to be an Indianapolis man it is popularly supposed that the ex-superintendent of the company, W. T. Steele, will become president, It is not thought that A. A. Anderson, secretary and treasurer of the company, will be allowed to remain, but no one is spoken of for his

The friends of T. P. Haugher have what they call a good joke on him. Yesterday morning the Sentinel announced that he was the most likely man for the presidency of the road. Yesterday afternoon Barney Foulke, a florist, whose place is near Mr. Haughey's residence, and who had read the Sentinel and believed it, prepared a magwhich appeared the words "For the president of the Citizens' Street-railroad Company," and presented it to Mr. Haughey. That gentleman was very much sur-prised, and, with his friends, considers the matter a joke. Although Mr. Haughey may take some stock in the corporation at the solicitation of the new owners, it is not thought he would accept the presidency if tendered him. The street-car employes are much delightened at the turn affairs bave taken, but are very anxious to know who will have the active management of the

AN INHUMAN SISTER.

Suspected of Accessory in the Murder of Her Brother for His Money.

HOLTON, Kan., Nov. 27 .-- Senational arrests were made to-day in the murder case of Paul Sweitlick, a wealthy farmer of Jackson county. A month ago Swettlick rode on horseback from his home in Jackson county to the farm of his sister, Mrs. John Stach, near here, to pay her a visit. During his visit some one attached a revolver to his saddle so that when he mounted his horse the revolver was fired, the bullet entering his groin, and producing death in a few days. The murder has remained a mystery until to-day, when | gates by the committee appointed for that the detectives, who have been working on purpose. The committee reported for the case, arrested Mrs. John Stach, the murdered man's sister, Joseph Stach, her son, and Henry Nowack, a laborer in Mrs. Stach's employ. Swertlick was worth about $50,000, and his life was insured for $87,500. The bulk of his estate would have passed to Mrs. Stach, and it is believed her haste to acquire possession of it was the prime motive of the murder.

PIGEON SHOW CLOSED.

American Pigeon Club Formed at Nashville for Pretensive Future Exhibitions.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 27 .- The big pigeon show closed here last night, the hall being packed. The meeting has been one of the most successful ever held in Amercia. The principal business occurring during the meeting was the formation of a grand pigeon club, national in its character. It is called the "American Pigeon Club," and the officers are follows: President, John H. Kuhn. of the down-town churches. Many of the of Kentucky; first vice, Andrew Muehlig, of Michigan; second, R. S. Ryan, of Maryland; secretary, Joseph Gavin, of Massachusetts; treasurer, John D. Abel, of Maryland. The executive embraces F. M. Gilbert, of Indiana: R. A. Lasseter, of Tennessee; George W. Eckert, of Pennsylvania; W. B. Gibson, of Illinois; C. A. Wagner, of Canada; Charles J. Tanner, of Kentucky. It was decided to form an Eastern and Western circuit and hold a big show in each section once a year. The capital stock is $5,000. This is the biggest thing in this line ever attempted.

WEISSERT'S APPOINTMENTS.

The G. A. R. Commander-in-Chief Names the Committee on Legislation.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 27 .- Commanderin-chief Weissert, of the G. A. R., has appointed the committee on legislation, the important committee within his appointive power, as follows: Joseph W. Kay, Amos J. Cummings, John Raines, all of the Department of New York: Charles P. Lincoln, Department of the Potomac; William F. Ross, Department of Maryland.

The chief duty of the committee is to look after the enforcement of statute laws regarding the employment of veterans of the war by the government. Joseph W. Kay, chairman of the committee, is editor of the Home and Country Magazine, of New York city, and one of the most vigorously progressive of the Grand Army men in the country.

LAST DAY AT FORT WAYNE.

This Has No Reference to the Comet, but to the Christian Endeavor Convention.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 27 .- This was the last day of the fifth annual convention of Indiana Christian Endeavorers. There was a largely attended praise-meeting at 9 A. M., which was adjourned at 10 o'clock to admit of attendance at the regular church services. No particular business was transacted excepting at the 2 o'clock meeting this afternoon. The nomination of officers for 1823 was reported to the delepresident, J. H. O. Smith, of Valporaiso; vice-presidents-M. H. Appleby, of Wingate; W. H. Provines, of Princeton; B. M. Hastings, of Auburn; M. M. Binford, of Carthage; secretary, Miss Elizabeth M. Wishard, of Indianapolis; treasurer, V. C. Kendall, of Indianapolis. It was decided by acclamation that the choice of the committee be approved, and that those named serve as officers of the organization during the next year. Following this was a jubilee meeting over the closing of the world's fair on Sundays. It was in charge of Rev. R. V. Hunter, of Terre Haute, chairman of the Endeavor committee on Sunday closing. Many short and stirring addresses were made, and complimentary resolutions were adopted giving Rev. R. V. Hunter credit for the success he has bad in the Sunday closing of the fair. Resolutions, thanking the local union for its pleasant entertainment here, were adopted, also one expressing thanks that the Rev. J. M. Bair, one of the founders, has been restored to health after a dangerous illness. This evening closed the session by simultaneous meetings in several delegates have gone already.

A PARTISAN OUTRAGE.

A Democratic Editor and Justice of the Peace Sets Free Murderer Clabe Shuck.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CORYDON, Ind., Nov. 27 .- The preliminary trial of Clabe Shuck for the killing of W. G. Heth resulted in the acquittal of the defendant, Justice R. S. Kirkham deciding that the deed was done in self-defense. The verdict has raised a storm of indignation, Rev. H. I. Stern, of the Presbyterian Church, and Rev. J. W. Milam, of the M. E. Church, being among those who unhesitatingly denounce it as an outrage. Rev. Stern is a Populist while Rev. Milam is Prohibitionist, but they openly declare that Shuck was set at liberty because he is a Democrat. Justice Kirkham is the editor of a local Democratic paper, but the prosecution thought that inasmuch as there was unimpeachable testimony to show that Shuck was guilty of murder, the justice could not do otherwise than recognize him to the Circuit Court. The defendant himself did not expect anything else, and it is a matter of general surprise that Justice Kirkham should thus let it appear that he let his partisam prejudice govern his decision. The matter will go before the grand jury at its next session, and unless Shuck flee the country he may yet be brought to justice.

FIGHTING OVER A WILL, Trustees of Hartsville College Trying to Col lect a Bequest of $4,000. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. COLUMBUS, Ind., Nov. 27 .- Suit was begun in the Bartholomew Circuit Court yes terday by the trustees of Hartsville College to collect by foreclosure $4,000, a be quest given to that college many years ago by Philip Fix. The bequest was by will and carried with it two conditions. The first was that his son William should be retained as an instructor during his life, and the other was that the coilege should remain under the control of the United Brethren denomination. Some years ago Prof. William Fix borrowed the amount of the bequest of his father from the trustees, and afterwards died, leaving the amount unpaid. About this time two factions in the church sprang up over the secret society. question, and for a time the college was in the hands of the "Liberals," a branch not identified with the church proper, and not authorized to hold property, and it is on this account that the heirs are now resisting the payment of this amount.

NEW CASTLE, Ind., Nov. 26.-Prof. Thos. He is very sanguine of success in his ambition to hobnob with King Oscar, and to prepare himself to bear the rigors of the climate at Stockholm has been going without an overcoat ever since the election. WAITING FOR DEMOCRATS TO ACT. Western Business Men Holding Back Until a Definite Policy Is Announced.

New York Correspondence I biladelphia Press. Business men here are beginning to receive through their correspondence personal letters which give some inkling into the causes for the astonishing results of the election in some of the Western States. I was shown to-day a number of letters received by one of our ablest business men, who is associated in no way with political parties, excepting that he is a firm believer in Republican principles, and votes that ticket always. ills politics never interfered with his business, however.

This man had extensive business relations with many-sections of the great West, and the letters which he showed me came from correspondents who represented the great agricultural district in the State of Illinois. The first letter received a few days after election stated that the result was an amazement there, and that very many of those who voted the Democratic ticket seem appalled at the extent of the victory. A circular was sent through central Illinois in which a lie was told about the purposes of the Republican party with respect to the schools in the Territories, and in many of the Catholic churches the priests advised their congregations to vote the Democratic "ticket" to prevent the Republican party from doing these things. "Ninety per cent. of the people living in this vicinity," said one of the letters, "are protectionists, and the time is not far distant when the great body of farmers in the West are bound to become high-tariff men. The instant the United States is compelled to import wheat-and that time is nearer than many people think - the Western farmers will insist upon protection for their product." A later letter, purely a business one, says that the effects of the election are already being felt in Illinois, and pretty seriously, too, by some of the workingmen, while business men are, if not anxious, at least timid. One of the largest manufacturers of fine brick in the West, himself not a politionan or particularly interested in politics, does not believe it wise to carry on his business until he finds out what the new tariff is to be. He has, therefore, announced that his works will be closed at the end of the year, and about four thousand hands will be thrown out of employment. The letter goes on to suggest certain business arrangements made necessary by the fact that one of the largest manufacturers and dealers in building supplies has recorved, since election, orders canceling contracts amounting to about $400,000, in every case the reason given being that it is not regarded as wise to undertake any new building entil it is discovered what the Democratic policy is to be. arrangements made necessary by the fact that the Joliet steel-works have determined to shut down, and to wait for orders; and so the story goes on, snowing a disposition of business men in the West to curtail and wait. This is also true to some extent in this vicinity. It is said that very speedily some twelve thousand workmen employed on the world's fair buildings will be discharged, and there is a belief in the West that there will be a great depreciation in Chicago real estate.

The Dog's Idea of Mag. Popular Science Monthly. As has been said, our custom of ascribing human faculties and modes of thought is an involuntary and invariable one when we are dealing with the mental processes of other beings. Even when we speak of the supernatural the same habit is manifest, and human passions, emotions and weaknesses are constantly ascribed to beings presumed to be infinitely more remote from us in power and knowledge than we are from a dog. Thus we see in the not very distant past, roasted flesh and fruits were thought by men to be acceptable to the gods; doubtless because they were pleasing to the palates of the worshipers, who reasoned by analogy from the known to the unknown. This should teach us to bear in mind that there is. affecting the dog's point of view, almost undoubtedly ised his support publicly, and in each case | such a thing as cynomorphism, and that this has brought committees with protests | he has his peculiar and limited ideas of until it really appears that his decisions have not pleased his constituents in a single instance, but, on the contrary, have roundings square with them. It has been roundings square with them. It has been said that a man stands to his dog in the position of a god; but when we conelder that our own conceptions of deity severe spell of sickness, and appeared to be | lead us to the general idea of an enormously powerful and omniscient Man, who of those who were wanting favors at his loves, hates, desires, rewards and punishes, in human-like fashion, it involves no strain of imagination to conceive that from the dog's point of view his master is an elongated and abnormally cunning dog; of different shape and manners certainly to the common run of dogs, yet canine in his essential nature.

Mrs. Ballington Booth,

She is not a feature of the newspapers, and she is not a lioness in any sense, but surely all who saw her, weak and pale, stand up and address that immense assemblage at the Music Hall, must have been struck with the inefiable womanliness and the simple charm of her modest sincerity. She spoke without effort, in a sweet, clear, incistve voice of peculiar tenderness, and her face was lit up as if with an inward light. It was very plain to be seen that the army that listened to her, and hailed her with so much noisy enthusiasm, were not won by her oratory. but by her character. THE HOG ISLAND SAGE Sleeps Well, Pounding His Ear the Whole Night Long, as the Feller Says.

EXMORE, Va., Nov. 27 .- Nothwithstanding that the Sabbath is considered a day of rest President-elect Cleveland arose at 5:30 this morning, and took a brisk walk in the vicinity of Mr. Ferrell's cottage. He afterward breakfasted and remained in-doors until afternoon. It was decided not to attend divine services at Rev. Sturgis's island church, at 11 o'clock, as had been previously planned. About 2 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Cleveland and party took a drive along the beach. The party was out for over two hours. After their return the regular 5-o'clock dinner was served. Mr. Cleveland has promised to visit the little island school during the coming week. He is expected on the first bright afternoon, and Miss Florence Hudson, who superintends this rather primative institution of learning, has placed everything in order for the reception.

Mr. Cleveland attends his own correspondence. Almost every afternoon, when the conditions are unfavorable for shooting, the President-elect seats himself at Mr. Ferrell's private desk and faithfully devotes himself to answering such letters as require immediate and personal attention. Mr. Cleveland sleeps remarkably well, seldom awakening during the night. The perfect quiet which prevails, together with the invigorating sait air are well calculated to both cure and prevent insomnia. The bay, to-day, is literally silve with water-fowl. Floating blinds have been constructed and when Mr. Cleveland again goes gunning he will have better opportunities for bagging game than hereto-

During Mr. Cleveland's residence on Broadwater island he has given practically no attention to the daily papers. Arrang ments have been made, however, by which he will to-morrow have an opportunity of perusing the leading metropolitan sheets. When out for duck Mr. Cleveland is dressed in a suit of heavy gray cloth, with a double-breasted eack cost. When the water is sufficiently rough to dash spray over the boat, he adds a waterproof to his heavy overcoat. The outfit is completed with a black slonch hat and a pair of thick felt shoes. Although nothing definite has been determined regarding the final departure of Mr. Cleveland for the North, yet it is understood to-night that he will leave about the middle of this week for Cape Charles and will spend a couple of days upon the estate of his old friend, the late Congressman William L. Scott, of Erie, Pa. It is his intention, should it be carried out, that the party should start homeward on Friday or Saturday from Cape Charles. According to this programme Mr. Cleveland would not return to Broadwater island after his visit to Squire Upshur's plantation, where he will shoot partridges, but take a south-bound train at Nassawadox, a small station three miles below Exmore. The estate of the late Representative Scott contains about one thousand acres, and it is situated one mile from Cape Charles, and it is known as the largest and most productive truck patch in the country.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 27.-The complexion of the next Legislature and the election of a United States Senator, it is discovered. depend upon one vote, and that vote is to be deciced by lot. The House of Representatives at present stands sixty-two Republicans, fifty-eight People's party, three Democrats, one independent and one tie. The law says that in case of a tie for a member of the Legislature, the seat shall be awarded by lot. If the Republicans be successful in the drawing of the Coffey county seat they will have sixty-three members, just enough to organize the House, they lose, the combined opposition will have sixty-three votes, and the oppo-sition parties would have control of both branches of the house. Two years ago there was a tie, and the matter was decided by chance. The two candidates came before the State Canvassing Board and drew ballots from a hat, the Republican winning. The Check to Business.

Philadelphia Press. English example is often quoted to show the ease with which a change can be made from a high to a low tariff; but in England the heaviest duties imposed were on food, and the first result of repealing the corn laws was to reduce the price of food. England was already manufacturing more than it could consume at home, and the repeal of such protective duties as there were on manufactures had no appreciable effect except on the silk industry, which was destroyed.

In this country the tariff has its chief effect on manufactures. No one expects that food will be made cheaper, though the farmer's profit on wool will doubtless be cut down. The brant of every reduction in the tariff will fail, first on the labor and next on the capital employed in protected industries. Capital is taking care of itself by entering on no new enterprises. The fate before labor appears in the shut-down of the Chicago steel-works, with three thousand hands. Every month will add to the growing list of orders countermanded, extensions stopped and works shut down.

Out of the Question.

"Can you relax the features a trifle?" asked the photographer, raising his head from the back of the camera. "The expression is too severe. Try to look a little more pleasant." "Never mind the expression," said the sitter, dejectedly. "The expression is all right. Go ahead with the picture. You can't expect a man that's just lost four silk hats, a suit of clothes, a horse and $67.50 in cash beside, on the election, to look as pleasant as if he had fallen heir to a farm. "It isn't any of my business, of course, suggested the photographer, "but couldn't you have watted for this job until you were "No," said the man in front of the cam-feeling a little more cheerful?" era, an added shade of gloom crossing his face. "I am doing this on a bet, too."

The Doctor Should Advertise. Philadelphia Times.

It strikes one very oddly to hear of cur-ing corns by giving medicine internally, and yet that is what has happened in more than one case in this city. A lady, a great sufferer from corps, complained to her physician, a man prominent in the profession, who said at once he would cure her. She really thought at first he was crazy when he prescribed medicine, but he insisted and told her she would have to keep taking it several months, She did so, and her corns gradually disappeared. A friend whom she told about it followed the same course, and was also relieved of her corns.

If He Is Making It Honestly.

A man who is making money never runs away. It seems to be the rule that no ma .ter how much a man thinks of a woman, he will never run away with her if he has to give up a job with money in it.

Sarsaparilla" "Words are powerless to express the gratitude I feel toward Hoed's Sarsaparilla, for under God, I feel and know that to this medicine I owe my life. Twelve years ago I . began to bloat, followed by nausea at the stomach, and later with swellings of the limbs, accompanied by severe pain. This gradually grew worse until three years ago. Physicians told me the trouble was

Caused by a Tumor

For several months I had been unable to retain any food of a solid nature. I was greatly emaciated, had frequent hemorrhages, and was satisfied the doctors were right in saying my life was nearly over. One day a friend suggested that I try Hood's Sarsaparilla; I did so, and for 3 or 4 days I was sicker than ever, but I kept on and gradually began to feel better.

I Began to Feel Hungry Could, after a time, retain solid food, increased in weight, the saffron hue left my skin, the bloating subsided, and I felt better all over. For the past two years my health has been quite good, and I have been able all the time to do the housework for my family. After what it has done for me I never hesitate to recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. Ogden Snyder, No. 10 Judson Street, Albany, N. Y.

STORY OF A HERO.

He Has No Victoria Cross Nor Congressional Medal, and Doesn't Know His Qualities. Pittsburg Dispatch.

I came across a hero the other day. He looked much the same as every-day mankind. He did not know he was a hero, nor did I, until he had left the party in which I met him. Domestic heroism, that of the privacy of home, with no Victoria cross or congressional medal dangling before it as a possibility, is, after all, perhaps the noblest of all heroism. Here was a great, strong, healthy and wealthy man, fond of outdoor sports, of travel, of the activity of a busy commercial career-one who in his youth was a man's man rather than a woman's. Fifteen years ago he married, and in a few years there came three children into the household. It had been a happy family. He was a kindly husband as husbands go, and she a pleasant and dutiful wife. Out of the night came paralysis to her-a new life to him. Since that time his career has been entirely altered. His business was quickly arranged so he could be frequently absent from his office. He was father, mother, nurse, teacher, companion and playmate compressed in one domestic providence. Never had woman more devoted attendant nor more faithful and intelligent nurse. All the little questions of housekeeping and of the care and training of children, of their clothing, their pleasures and their pains fell to him, and in his hands they have been managed with a wisdom and care absolutely wonderful. This has been, remember, something of ten years' standing, and it has grown instead of lessening. Outside of his comparatively casual attention to business, his horizon is confined to the wails of his home. To make the wife forget her burden of affliction and be a happy woman through it all has been his happiness, and with such a spirit he could not fail. They travel about considerably, this family, and all the denurses nor governesses are permitted to usurpany of his duties, although there is one of each there at hand as his representative in times of enforced absence. So skillfully is all this done, so modestly is it carried out that even the chief beneficiary does not realize what is occurring-and that is his reward. "They do not build Westminster abbeys nowadays," said a friend of mine once, and I thought of his remark when I heard the story of this man, for the supply of heroes at this time is far below the demand.

Very Sad.

New York Commercial Advertiser. It is sad to learn that the Hog island club-house, that lodge in some vast wilderness where Cleveland has hied him to find his boundless contiguity of shade and escape the "dirty beggars" who want office, is owned by Philadelphia millionaires. In all his public speeches during the late campaign Mr. Cleveland made a distinct feature of the anti-millionaire issue, and by that means railed the socialistic and anarchistic elements to his standard. He should not permit himself to be lured into a shooting lodge patronized only by millionaires and Presidents-elect.

As to the Democratic Party. Mrs Mary E. Lease.

The Democratic party is not a party; it is a protest. It is a protest against woman, a protest against temperance, against truth, and, in fact, a protest against everything that is true and good. It is a coward, and, after pledging reforms is afraid to give them. It professes to be opposed to protection, and yet will not give the country free trade. But the seeds of dissatisfaction have already been planted in the South, and while they are a little slow down there they will come around to our way of thinking in time.

This Editor Does Not Know Mrs. Lease.

On second thought it isn't strange that old Mr. Peffer, of Kansas, should prefer to have Mrs. Lease as his colleague in the Senate. With a woman for his fellow Senator Mr. Peffer would probably have less trouble in distributing the federal patronage in Kansas where it would do the most good than if the place were occupied by a
